FREE DELIVERY OF MAIL STARTS ON WEST SIDE TOMORROW MORNING.

Postmaster Collins Asks That Particular Care Be Taken
In the Addressing of Letters.

UNTIL THEY BECOME FAMILIAR.

With the Location of Houses and Business Places and With New Patterns of the Free Delivery System—Two Cent Stamps Are Necessary.

Free delivery will be extended to the West Side by the Connellville postoffice beginning tomorrow but it will take a week or two to get the new system running smoothly. The Connellville authorities are not yet familiar with the names of the new residents within the free delivery district but they hope to overcome this handicap in a short time.

The residents of the West Side, within the free delivery radius, can give great assistance to the postal authorities by notifying their correspondents of their correct address and requesting that all letters to them be directed plainly. Those beyond the district should have the mail addressed either to their box number at the Connellville office, or the General Delivery.

Another feature which is new to the West Side is the fact that a two cent stamp must be placed on "drop," or city letters. At offices where there is no free delivery system, such letters will be delivered if only a one cent stamp is affixed, but where the carrier system is in force, all first class mail must have not less than two cents in stamps on it, whether it is to be delivered or merely placed in an office box.

Today marks the last day for the New Haven postoffice and the resignation of Postmaster S. B. Siddle-Smith takes effect tonight. West Side residents will get their last mail from the New Haven postoffice today.

Although there has been considerable demand for boxes at the Connellville postoffice, most of the West Side business men prefer to have their mail delivered to them as the schedule calls for three deliveries a day. The lock boxes will hardly be popular with the West Side until the new Federal building is erected and the postoffice is more conveniently located.

SCANDALOUSLY BIG SUMS IN JUDICIAL CONTESTS

Report of Judicial Campaigns Feature of Meeting of Pennsylvania
Bar Association.

BEDFORD, June 30.—The fifteenth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Bar Association opened at the Bedford Springs hotel yesterday. One of the features of the meeting was the report of the Grievance Committee stating that complaint had been made of scandalously large sums of money being spent in judicial contests. Cyrus G. Dorr, the chairman, made the report and it was freely discussed.

Hon. M. Hampton Todd, Attorney General, made the opening address yesterday, suggesting wedding from the statute books many unnecessary and conflicting laws. Hon. Nathaniel Evans, chairman, made a report of the Committee on Legal Ethics. The Committee on Constitution of the Courts was represented by Hon. H. M. McClure of Lewisburg, who suggested the abolition of the Superior Court and the enlargement of the Supreme Court. Hon. Anna W. Eaton of Rhode Island, delivered an address in the evening on "Thomas W. Dorr and the Dorr War in Rhode Island."

The session today began at 10 o'clock. John W. Appel of Lancaster read a paper on "Gibson and Progressive Jurisprudence." "Comparative Law as a Practical Science" was the title of a paper by William W. Smithers of Philadelphia. There will be no session this afternoon, the time being given over to social amusements.

IMMENSE CROWD GOES TO PITTSBURG

Estimated That 1,000 People Are At Forbes Park From This Section Today.

Upwards of 200 people of Connellville are attending the opening of Forbes baseball park today. The special train that left here at 9:05 this morning had 10 coaches but they were not filled and three of them were taken off here. The 10:10 train could not accommodate the immense crowd and the three coaches were attached to it, and this gave barely enough room for the Connellville crowd. It is thought that passengers on other stations who waited upon this train were disappointed. From this section of the State it is estimated that upwards of 1,000 people went to the event.

Among the Connellville people who are witnessing the game are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McClure, A. A. Straub and daughter, Miss Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hays, Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Hotzel, Miss Harriet Berger, J. R. Davidson and daughters, Misses Marian and Ruth, Mrs. Frank Leibiger, Charles Peterson, Harry Smith, C. J. Brown, F. H. Graham, R. D. North, C. W. Downs, J. M. Danger of Losing Wages.

Reimer states that he is a resident of Connellville and is employed as an engineer by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. Kendig, he says, knowing the laws of Pennsylvania in regard to attaching wages for debt, went to Wheeling on June 10 and after securing judgment for $91 against Reimer, summoned the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company's garnishee and attached his wages with the railroad company. Reimer says he is without money to contest the action in West Virginia and is in danger of losing his wages unless Kendig is restrained from prosecuting the suit.

CHILD WEEPS AND ASKS FOR MOTHER.

Arrested With Its Father and Another Woman Is Now
In Lockup.

WAS KIDNAPED IN MICHIGAN

Man Says That He Deserted His Wife
Five Years Ago, and Then Went Back to Get the Baby—Little One
Does Not Like Strange "Mamma."

The greatest of excitement prevails in the little coke town of Leasburg No. 1 over a kidnapping case which was brought to light on Monday when Mrs. Katie Morick and John Gargie were arrested by Constable William Roland. The couple are now in the West Side police station pending an investigation which is being made by Constable Roland and County Detective Frank McLaughlin. Since the arrival of the couple and child at the police station the child has cried continually for its mother.

Gargie claims that he is the father of the child, but deserted his wife and child more than five years ago, leaving them penniless in Northern Michigan. The deserted wife found employment in a restaurant and in this manner supported herself and child. A few weeks ago Gargie appeared in Michigan and while his wife was at work he went to her home and stole the child, taking her away in her night clothes. The child says they were met at the station by a woman who the man said she must call "mamma." They left that night, coming direct to Leasburg and was about to buy furniture when the arrest was made.

The child says she was taken away from New York but papers in the trunk which the couple had show that the kidnapping occurred in Houghton, Michigan. An information has been made against the couple for adultery before Squire P. M. Buttermore of the West Side.

DIDN'T FIND MONEY BUT GOT PARALYZED

John Unshaw Back in the Lockup
This Morning and Hidden Money
Story a Myth.

John Unshaw went out of the police station yesterday to look for the $200 he had secreted in the woods but appearances were decidedly against John when he appeared in police court this morning charged with being drunk.

John claimed to have imbibed only one glass of whiskey, but Officers George Francis and Stoner had to carry him to the lockup. He was given 48 hours and Burgess Evans decided the hidden money a myth. Joseph Taylor, who farms near Vanderbilt, got drunk on the way to town with some cherries yesterday. He claimed he was more sick than drunk. He promised to bring $3.50 to the Burgess this week.

ROBBER GANG IS BROKEN UP.

Two Members of It Are Caught by Clue From a Coat.

FINE COAT WAS TOO CHEAP

Woman Turns States Evidence When Confronted By Prisoner and Officers and Many Robberies Around
Suterville Are Explained.

Special to The Courier.

WEST NEWTON, June 30.—The arrest of Joe Moretti alias Joe Gorilla, by Constable David Kelly of Sewickley township yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct led to the discovery and arrest of two of a gang of robbers who are guilty of several robberies which have been committed recently in the vicinity of Suterville. Moretti or Gorilla is a Russian Pole and was arrested at Blackburn, a little town along the Pennsylvania branch between Gratztown and Irwin. The coat worn by the man was the first to arouse the suspicion of Constable Kelly. On asking the prisoner where he purchased the garment and the price he paid for it, Moretti said he paid $10 for the coat. As the coat and price named by Moretti didn't correspond with one another, Constable Kelly's suspicions became stronger.

On examining the coat he discovered that it bore the name of David Blittler, a well known merchant of Suterville. Moretti said he bought the coat from a peddler. The prisoner was taken to Suterville and to the store of Mr. Blittler where the coat was recognized as part of a suit taken from the store recently. He was then taken back to Gratztown to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Grobb where the discovery of the band of robbers was made. Mrs. Grobb turned states evidence by telling Constable Kelly that there were two men at Irwin and a man by the name of Mike Maris at Wilton who were also members of the gang. She further stated that before coming to Gratztown they resided at Cowansburg and it was while living there that the goods were brought to the Grobb home and divided among the gang.

Squire Jacob Smith of Gratztown Constable Kelly, Constable Oberdick of Suterville and David Blittler are now in hot pursuit of the other three men implicated in the robberies. The woman admitted that the gang had robbed stores at Hermiston, Suterville and Irwin. About a year ago the officers named arrested a gang of men who were implicated in a number of robberies in Washington, Pa., and who are now serving a term in the penitentiary. Moretti and Grobb are in the lockup at Gratztown pending a further investigation into the case.

COUNTY WILL BUY

TWO BLOODHOUNDS.

Commissioners Decide With the Authorities That They Are Needed.

DOGS HAVE BEEN SUCCESSFUL

In Tracing a Number of Criminals and It Is Believed That If They Can Be Put on Trail Early They Will Prove Valuable.

UNIONTOWN, June 30.—Fayette county is to have two blood hounds. It has been decided to purchase two from Frank Farley of Crown Point, Indiana, in order to track Fayette county criminals. Mr. Farley writes to the Commissioners that he has two very fine specimens which he is willing to send here on trial, and he guarantees that they can do the work.

Recently the authorities have brought hounds from Morgantown, W. Va., and they have met with success in tracing criminals. This is rather costly and besides the dogs usually arrive a day late, which does not give them as fair a chance as they should have. With the dogs located in Uniontown they could be quickly dispatched to the point of a crime and take up the trail while it was hot.

The blood hounds cost anywhere from $300 to $1,000 a pair. Unless they come in pairs they do not work so well. It is likely that County Detective McBeth will be sent out to Indiana to look the dogs over before they are brought here.

The authorities believe that with the dogs they will be able to prevent many cases of robbery especially as the presence of the dogs, ready to run down criminals will lead a wholesome fear to the midnight marauder.

PENNSYLVANIA'S PAYROLL.

Paid Out in Wages in 1908 $125,543,947.

The Pennsylvania railroad system, east and west of Pittsburgh, in 1908, paid out in wages $125,543,947, a reduction of $29,471,951, from 1907. In the latter year the companies employed an average 198,000 men, while in 1908 this number was reduced by 24,000 men. There were, by reason of the lack of business, some reductions in hours in 1908 which affected the gross sums earned by certain classes of employees, but no changes were made in rates of pay.

In 1907 the gross earnings from operations of the companies included in this compilation were $321,478,308, and in 1908 they were $267,659,213, a loss of $53,819,095.

Injunction Continued.

Judge Alexander C. McConnell continued the injunction granted Vandergrift citizens against the School Board of that town, restraining it from erecting a new school building.

BY NOT HAVING SEWERS

Declare That Certain Section of the South Side Is a Disease Breeding
Spot and Deadly Menace to Health of Residents.

No injunction will be asked of the court to restrain the contractors from carrying on the work of paving streets under the contracts awarded them at the last meeting of the Town Council, but other and more drastic measures will be taken in an effort to have sewers installed in Sycamore, Patterson, Chestnut and Newmyer avenues, the disease-breeding section of the South Side.

Many families reside in this section and they have for years been appealing to Council to give them sewer facilities, but nothing has ever actually been done. Jefferson A. DeWitt, who heads the South Side delegation, when asked this morning if he would appeal to the court to have an injunction issued restraining the paving work as being done ahead of the sewer work, replied:

"No, I won't ask for an injunction, nor will any other resident of that miserable section of the South Side, made miserable by reason of it having no sewers, and dangerous because of its continual epidemic of disease. We intend to place the matter squarely up to the court. If the Council does not maintain a continual nuisance out there in our section there never was a nuisance in the world. The stinks drain into the gutters, the closets fill the alleys with filth and it is simply disgusting to smell the odors wafted over the community by day and by night. There has never been a time that there has not been sickness there. Sore throats, diphtheria, typhoid fever and almost every disease abounds. I can get 300 citizens to certify that sickness has visited almost every family that lives in the territory."

"The houses are nice residence houses. They were built with closet attachments, bath rooms and indeed every modern requirement. The filth from all these drain in the ditches, which reek with it and are so sort that the wheels of wagons sink into them up to the hub, stirring up the nasty odors and sending them broadcast over the community, carrying disease and death everywhere. The conditions are deplorable, and I believe they are beyond the realization of residents of town, especially so when they see the many new and good homes in that section."

"I have already taken the matter up with Health Commissioner Dixon, and I am going to keep on taking it up. They can pave all the streets they want to, but the people of this section of the South Side demand sewers to save their very lives, not just to keep their shoes clean or make the road for wagons smooth."

"I am preparing a petition to the court of Fayette county at the present time setting forth that a perpetual nuisance is being maintained on the South Side. I propose to measure with a tape line every inch of the territory setting forth how far it is to a drain, how many places drain into the ditches, how many have been sick in the family and every other possible bit of information that is obtainable. I will prove beyond all question of a doubt that the town is maintaining there a nuisance, and a deadly one, too."

In his fight for the South Side sewers, DeWitt is backed by the whole community. The residents have banded together to get sewers for the territory regardless of what action the town may take in barring them from their use.

RELIGIOUS BLACKMAIL.

That is What a Merchant Terms Constant Solicitation of Funds.

"This religious blackmail is getting played out," remarked a merchant the other day, just after he had written his name in a book a woman had handed him and given her a dollar. "It is simply a species of blackmail. I don't dare refuse because it's for a church. If I don't give to them they'll report it at the next sewing circle and I'll be boycotted. When I do give it is never mentioned and don't do me 10 cents worth of good. That's the fourth church I've contributed to this week. I don't belong to any of them. As a member of another church I contribute liberally to the minister's salary. In addition to supporting my own church I have to help support all the others in town. I have to contribute cash and then buy tickets to the affair to which I contributed. I have to give goods for the bazaar tables and then pay my way in so I can buy back my own goods at an exorbitant price. I am not the only sufferer. Every merchant in town gets it the same way. Why a band of people will start a church, hire a preacher, put up a building and then ask the general public to support it, I can't understand. It is like a hospital or a school. It would be different, but I don't see any more reason why I should help support another man's church than that I should help support his wife. If the Christian band cannot keep up its church without blackmailing every man in business let the place be closed up. One good, big church could be formed from the ruins."

Will Plan at Ohio.

CUTICURA PROVEN PURE SWEET AND HARMLESS

A New York friend of Cuticura writes the following interesting letter:—

"My three year old son and heir, after being put to bed on a trip across the Atlantic, investigated the state-room and located a box of graham crackers and a box of Cuticura Ointment."

"When a search was made for the box, it was found empty and the kid admitted that he had eaten the contents of the entire box spread on the crackers. It cured him of a bad cold and I don't know what else."

No more copious evidence than the above could be offered that every ingredient of Cuticura Ointment is absolutely pure, sweet and harmless. If it may be safely eaten by a young child, none but the most beneficial results can be expected to attend its application to even the tenderest skin of youngest infant. This feeling is shared by mothers and nurses to such an extent that Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have for many years been unhesitatingly used throughout the civilized world for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin scalp, hair and hands of infants and children from the hour of birth. And greater still, if possible, is the confidence reposed in Cuticura Remedies for the treatment of torturing and disgusting humors of the skin and scalp. The suffering which they have thus alleviated among the young and the comfort they have afforded worn-out and worried parents have led to the adoption in countless homes as priceless agents in the speedy, permanent, safe and economical treatment of infantile and birth humors, eczema, rashes, irritations, inflammations and chafings, and other itching, scaly and pimply humors when all other remedies suitable for children fail.

Cure Remedies are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, P. O. Chatterhouse St.; Paris, 10, rue de la Paix; Australia, 11, Town & Co., Sydney; South Africa, 10, Cape Town; India, 10, Calcutta; Hong Kong, 10, Hong Kong; Japan, 10, Yokohama; Siam, 10, Bangkok; Ceylon, 10, Colombo; China, 10, Shanghai; and elsewhere.

TWIN EARTHQUAKES.

Two Distinct Series of Shocks Are Felt Almost Simultaneously.

Among the most interesting earth tremors from a scientific point of view are those known as "twin earthquakes," where two distinct series of shocks are felt, separated by an interval of two or three seconds. In each series the vibrations increase to a maximum and die away, the whole duration, including the quiet interval, being eight to twelve seconds. In some parts of the earthquake zone the most powerful shocks are nearly always of this kind. When they occur, however, there is always a strip of country where only one shock is felt.

Apparently there are two distinct points of origin for these shocks, and the strip where a single shock is felt is that where the two sets of vibrations arrive simultaneously. The fact that this band is straight shows that the two shocks occur together and that therefore one is not a consequence of the other.

FUTILE CHARGE BY SUFFRAGETTES.

They Storm British House of Commons and Are Repulsed.

OVER ONE HUNDRED ARRESTED

Mrs. Pankhurst, One of the Leaders, Slaps Police Inspector in the Face and Knocks His Cap Off—Premier Asquith Angers Army of Women.

London, June 30.—The thirteenth vain attempt of the militant suffragettes to obtain access to Premier Asquith by deputation resulted in exciting scenes in parliament square and the arrest of more than one hundred women. The plan of campaign followed the lines previously employed by the suffragettes. The "women's parliament" assembled in Caxton hall at 8 o'clock in the evening and sent a deputation, headed by Mrs. Pankhurst, to endeavor to see the prime minister, who had previously decided not to receive the deputation.

Enormous crowds of onlookers assembled in the vicinity of parliament square before the time set for the raid upon the house, around which several thousand police had taken up strategic positions. The first noteworthy incident was the arrest, after a great deal of trouble, of a woman suffragette, who tried to penetrate the police cordon to take a message to the premier. Next appeared the deputation under command of Mrs. Pankhurst, and it was received by the crowd with wild cheers. Escorted by the police, the deputation arrived at the St. Stephens entrance to parliament, where it was met by Chief Inspector Scanlanbury, who handed Mrs. Pankhurst a letter from the premier, regretting his inability to receive the deputation.

Angry throwing the letter on the ground, Mrs. Pankhurst exclaimed: "I stand on my rights as the king's subject to enter the house of commons," and she endeavored to force an entrance.

The police tried to induce the women to disperse quietly and then began to take the members of the deputation by the arms to lead them away. To the surprise of the spectators, who were massed around the entrance, Mrs. Pankhurst slapped the inspector Jarvis in the face, knocking his cap in the mud. There were cries of "Shame," and several of the spectators told the suffragette leader that she had no provocation to do such a thing.

The police behaved with the utmost forbearance, but the suffragettes forced them to some amount of rough handling. There was much screaming and in some cases fainting and many women had to be taken to the hospitals in a state of collapse.

The great crowds indulged in considerable horseplay, but generally no active sympathy was extended to the suffragettes.

Doctors' Prescriptions.

It has been proved over and over again that the doctors of this country freely prescribe proprietary medicines in Latin for their patients, until they are advertised to the public, after which time they consider it a duty to immediately condemn the very same medicine, not because the preparation is any less valuable, but because it is not "orthodox" to prescribe an advertised medicine. There are, however, many physicians of recognized standing broad-minded and successful enough to continue to prescribe such standard remedies as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which they know to be good.

LADIES, WHY NOT PRESERVE YOUR YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

Nothing so detracts from the attractiveness of women as dull, faded, listless hair.

There is no excuse for this condition nowadays, because notice is hereby given to the readers of The Courier that Parisian Sage, the quick acting hair restorer, is now on sale in Connelville at the drug store of A. A. Clarke and is sold with a rigid guarantee at 50 cents a bottle.

Since its introduction into America, Parisian Sage has had an immense sale, and here are the reasons.

It is safe and harmless.

It cures dandruff in two weeks, by killing the dandruff germ.

It stops falling hair.

It promptly stops itching of the scalp.

It makes the hair soft, glossy and luxuriant.

It gives life and beauty to the hair. It is not sticky or greasy.

It is the dearest perfume hair tonic made.

It is the best, the most pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.

For sale by leading druggists everywhere. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package.

Fight shy of the druggist who offers you a substitute, he is unworthy of your confidence.

This is what Mrs. Elizabeth E. Anderson, Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes: "I had given up hope of ever being cured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parisian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff, and has started a growth of new hair, and all this after having been troubled for 15 years. I cheerfully recommend Parisian Sage."

CLEAN POLITICS DEMAND OPEN EXPENSE BILLS.

The action of the Uniontown Civic League in demanding a public audit of Judge Umbel's campaign expenses is right and proper as far as it goes but it does not go far enough. It should demand an audit of all the candidates accounts and of the expenditures of all their disbursements. There should be no discrimination. If we are to have a judicial audit in Fayette county after all, let it be prompt and thorough; let it not be a limited and exclusive side-show, but rather a whole arena with all the animals in the ring. It seems to be up to Fayette county to offer some candid explanation of the political corruption with which she stands indicted at the bar of common report. Professions against the extravagant use and misuse of money at the polls, primary and general and particularly in judicial elections where the sin is most flagrant, have become so general and insistent that the Pennsylvania Bar Association's Grievance Committee made it the subject of a special report at the meeting of the association yesterday. The report says:

When candidates are committed to the fight there come forth men who may be just ordinary men when no election is pending but who are of high importance in political contests. Trained warriors who in primary campaigns at least are ready to do battle for either side like General Dalgouty, they make no secret of the merits of the contending parties, and moreover, resemble the German mercenary soldiers so cordially vilified by Dalgouty, who on the eve of battle would demand their wages, crying "Gelt, gelt, and refuse to deliver a blow until duly paid."

These practical workers will not allow a judiciary campaign to progress tamely by their preliminary maneuvers they frighten both candidates and then, gentlemen of the bar who became candidates with the best of intentions, now actuated by what they regard necessity, proceed to borrow money and adopt the unscrupulous methods of politics.

The report points out that if the evil is allowed to develop according to its nature, these results must follow:

1. Candidates for the bench will have to be limited to lawyers of large fortune or,

2. The salaries of judges will have to be largely increased.

3. JUDGES MUST BE ALLOWED TO MAKE MERCHANDISE OF JUSTICE.

Continuing the report says:

A judge with fortune impaired, feeling constantly a strong need of money, necessarily sharp pinch, is like other men.

What hope is there remaining for justice ultimately and for the pure administration thereof, if large parts of the judges' salaries to men years made over by anticipation to political workers if the candidates accounts filed among the records of the courts show expenditures as grossly out of proportion to the purposes designated as to create irreverence and scandal, if the people made familiar with such methods and many of them deriving profit therefrom are in position to thereby, and if this organization composed of 1000 distinguished lawyers and constituted for the avowed purpose of preserving and advancing the interests of justice shall not make some endeavor to prevent recurrence of such method of electing judges?

The searching and bitter arraignment of a known public scandal comes home with peculiar force to this section. The overwhelming corruption of Fayette county's judicial elections has been open and notorious before and after public statements were required by law to be filed, while Greene county degenerated into the bitterness of moral, political and financial bankruptcy from the same cause. It has been a matter of sorrow and shame to all decent citizens. While the last Fayette county judicial primary election was relatively the most decent campaign of the kind we have had in years, yet it seems that it cost the candidates $10,000, and doubts are expressed whether this sum could have been spent honestly and lawfully.

The Civic League has started the legal machinery into motion which should resolve those doubts instead of hindering or embarrassing it in any manner, the candidate with clean hands and good intentions will promote it by every means within his power, to the end that it shall be his vindication and not his conviction.

SOUTH SIDE DEMANDS FOUND IN JUSTICE

The demands of the South Side for proper sewerage are founded in justice and their refusal is a constant menace to the health and the lives of the citizens of the whole community. It is difficult to understand why Town Councils have persistently refused to provide a sewer system for this new portion of the borough, especially when propositions were made by private capital to provide the necessary funds and await the pleasure of the borough for repayment. The borough authorities have woefully and wrongfully failed in this public duty.

But the South Side citizens have never put forth any proper effort for the enforcement of their rights. They now threaten to do so. They are on the right track at last. Their petitions have been treated with contempt. The town has turned, it was time, in fact, the town has been very much behind a proper schedule time in turning.

The South Side citizens will have the sympathy of all wise and good people of Connelville in their fight for the enforcement of their demands. We don't want any plague spots in Greater Connelville.

The coke merger will have a few new coke plants to conquer, and if the object is not attained by benevolent assimilation it will probably be accomplished in a less pleasant manner. Independence sounds well, but intention smells trouble. The coke industry has got fresh coal, but there have been lots of others since that time who have not fared so well.

The Yellow Peril seems to have a penchant for playing the Gay Lothario. The work of civilizing mankind is man's work, not woman's.

The Wright brothers refuse to fly unless the wind is right; they evidently want to see a good finish.

Kentucky coal is being tested for coke in some of the Connelville ovens. We hope it hasn't gotten mixed.

Senator Crow, President of the State Senate found it impossible to discriminate when it came to naming "Is Durham's friends Durham has been named as being a husk, but aside from politics he was a man with a large warm heart. He numbered his friends by scores. He knew no personal enemies. In appointing the whole senate committee to attend the late Senator Durham's funeral, Senator Crow did a graceful and proper act.

The foreign citizen who banked his money in the woods stands an excellent chance of leaving it there when the other leaves without interest or principal.

Forbes Field is the center of sport interest today.

Bridge will be the popular game at Point Marion's Independence Day celebration.

If the borough can afford to invest $400 in fireworks for one day's celebration it can afford to invest $30 in planting flowers in City Hall Park for a whole summer's public pleasure.

Street walking Marathons are barred in Connelville.

The husky cops, the nimble firemen and borough officialdom generally should have a payroll chance at the glorious Fifth.

'Greater' Connelville seems to get so harshly upon the sensitive nature of the modest and retiring Uniontown Herald.

The Connelville coke region is satisfied with the revival of the coke industry and will not encourage the establishment here of a branch of the kidnapping business.

Burgess Evans is evidently in favor of a moral as well as a military cleaning up of Connelville, and he has the support of all decent citizens in this position.

The crime of keeping vicious dogs should be impressed upon their keepers.

After discovered epistolary evidence proves that the Maryland tragedy was another case of sentimentalism. This form of mating is invariably sinful, misalliance and ends in bitterness and death. The old-fashioned manner of marrying a woman, honoring her and making her obey is the best.

The Pennsylvania Senators are earning their salaries just now. Both of them are right on the job and they are there to some practical purpose.

It is reported from Washington that Senators are swamped with telegrams protesting against the Corporation Income tax measure and the telegrams are not from the trusts either, but from the smaller business interests.

The witnesses in the jail scandal case are all getting back in jail again, but the chief culprit still remains at large. In the arms of the law so paralyzed by prejudice that it cannot reach its own?

A Shoel of a Place

United Press Telegram

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30.—Tariff making and not weathering, do not make good bedfellows. Washington has been in the torrid zone during the past week and the result has been a noticeable diminution in the strenuousness of the tariff debate, in the virulence of partisan obstruction and in consequent acceleration in the progress of the bill.

Senators, especially the old veterans like Aldrich, Cullum, Frye, Hale, Burrows, Gallinger, Lodge and Perkins, are standing the strain remarkably well. The Senate has been meeting at 10 o'clock in the morning and sits until 7 at night, and during the whole of those nine hours the historic chamber, despite its artificial ventilation, is about as uncomfortable a place as one could imagine for this time of the year.

There is a widespread impression that the air pumped into the Senate chamber is first cooled by being passed over huge cakes of ice and some of the Capitol guides will gravely impart this information to their rural victims. It is entirely erroneous, however. It is simply the warm outside air that is sucked in by the aid of machinery, and then distributed through vents in the floor in the big hall, that furnishes the ventilation, and only the fact that it is kept constantly in circulation makes the chamber bearable at all. The Senate is enclosed by four interior walls and has no direct outlook on the outside world.

Senators avoid the chamber just as much as they can consistently with a proper performance of their duties. Of course, there is always a respectable showing of both parties on the floor even during the most long-winded speeches. But the others are not far away. They are in the cloak rooms just back of the hall, where they can enjoy the breeze from electric fans, smoke, and occasional slips of language, or they are in near-by committee rooms. They can not row about themselves for there is no telling when, at any moment, there may be a roll call either to demonstrate the presence of a quorum or to register a vote upon some important question.

It is this strain of constant attendance and the necessity of being continually on the watch lest some amendment inimical to the interests of their constituents be slipped in, that is waiting upon the Senators in this torrid weather and that has already put several of them in the hands of Washington physicians.

But it is not only the members that suffer from the constant grind. The official force of reading clerks etc., and especially the stenographers, not to mention the occupants of the press gallery are feeling it too. Every word that is uttered on the floor of the Senate is stenographically reported and has to appear in type in the Congressional Record next morning, unless for some reason, a Senator desires to withhold his speech for a day or so. It is calculated that since the tariff bill was reported to the Senate, upwards of 100,000 words a day have been uttered in discussion upon it. This would make something like 7,000,000 words to date and it is small wonder that Milton W. Blumenberg one of the official stenographers the man who single handed makes the report of every national convention of the Republican and Democratic parties has been obliged to seek rest and recuperation at the seashore.

Waite grass matting, 1 yard, 1 1/2 yards and 3 yards wide. Bound and bordered on the sides so that you can make your rug any size you want. And Vador shades to keep out the sun and let in the light and air. These are porch comforts that you ought to have ready for the Fourth.

LAND PATENT IS GRANTED AT LAST.

After a Delay of 116 Years
The Title to Tract Is Cleared.

INSPECTORS REPORT APPROVED

Reviewers Report Favorably on the Vacation of a Road in German
Township — Connellsville Couple
Seeks a Divorce.

UNIONTOWN, June 30.—After a delay of 116 years, the State of Pennsylvania has issued a land patent upon 261.49 acres of land in Wharton township, first applied for by Christian Wireman. The patent, as filed for record yesterday with Register and Recorder C. O. Schroyer is issued by Governor E. S. Stuart to Joseph G. Carroll for himself and in trust for Emily Cole, Catherine Rowan, Jennie Johnson and the estate of George W. Romesburgh. The property covered embraces the old Carroll homestead.

The warrant for the tract was first issued March 29, 1793. The tract was surveyed April 29, 1794. The land has been conveyed on the strength of the old land warrant, no patent ever having been taken out. When a proposition to sell the coal under the property to D. B. Zimmerman of Somerset, was recently taken up, the lack of the patent was discovered and the application made. It was granted December 11, 1907, by the payment of $7.58 in excess purchase money and interest and $15 in costs.

The report of the inspectors who made an examination of the Point Marion bridge was presented in court yesterday morning and approved. The inspectors were F. M. Semans, Jr., E. T. Norton and J. V. E. Ellis. The cost to the county for the services of these three gentlemen, including their railroad fares and the like, reached the total of $16.30.

L. D. Woodfill, J. H. Honsaker and Elliott Christopher, viewers to pass upon the question of a vacation of a pair of a road in German township and the dedication of a road to take its place, reported favorably on the proposition yesterday, their report being conditionally confirmed by the court. The new road leads from the stone bridge on the Masonstown and Sterling's Ferry road to a point 2,161 feet distant, rejoining the same highway. The highway abandoned was 2,156 feet in length. The road is to be 33 feet wide.

The bond of J. T. Sambower, as Receiver of the Peoples Tribune Company, was approved yesterday. It is for $10,000 and shows the Citizens Title & Trust company as surety.

Attorney P. S. Newmyer yesterday filed a libel in divorce in behalf of Martha E. Galtner against B. F. Galtner, alleging desertion September 23, 1906. The couple was married in Cumberland, Md., February 14, 1906, the libellant being a resident of Frederick, Md., and the respondent of Connellsville. Subsequently they lived at Connellsville, where the libellant still resides, but she says that her husband deserted her seven months after their wedding and is now living in Waynesburg.

John Dugan, Jr., was named as master to take testimony in the divorce case of Daisy P. Watt against Harry E. Watt, upon the petition of Attorney E. R. Goldsmith.

Attorney E. D. Brown asked the court yesterday to name R. M. Carroll as master in the divorce case of Antonio Lombardi against Mary Lombardi and the order was made.

Great Excitement At Ft. Wayne, Ind.

IT IS COMING TO CONNELLSVILLE
NEXT SATURDAY MORNING.

Hundreds of people of Ft. Wayne are greatly excited over the many remarkable cures that are being made at that point by the new discovery known as Root Juice. Many that suffered for years with some chronic ailment, after taking the juice a short while claim an absolute cure. Testimonials of local people whose word cannot be doubted are being published by the hundreds, and for the past few weeks people have been going in crowds to Ft. Wayne to get some of the great medicine. The druggist said that he never saw anything like it. Out of all the hundreds that tried it not a single complaint has been heard, but many said the first few doses of the juice created marked improvement. The scientist was invited to send his discovery here.

The demonstrations will be conducted in Graham & Company's drug store and will begin next Saturday. The remedy heals and tones the stomach, bowels, bladder, liver and kidneys. It soon creates a good appetite and stops the food from fermenting in the stomach and bowels. Then good healthy blood is made to build up the wasted tissue and feed the weakened nerves. LAWSON'S DAUGHTER BRIDE.

Wedded in Beautiful Dreamworld to a Chicago Man.

Seltwater, Mass., June 30.—In a bower of the most exquisite products of one of the finest gardens of America, Marion Lawson, second daughter of the famous financier and author, Thomas W. Lawson, became today the bride of James Fuller Lord of Chicago.

MRS. JAMES FULLER LORD.

The wedding decorations planned by the bride in yellow, her favorite color, and white brought forth enthusiastic praise from the large bridal party. Dreamworld, the Lawson estate near this place, is at its best in June, with thousands and thousands of rosebushes and other flowering plants. The ceremony was performed in the beautiful garden.

Today's wedding is the outcome of a meeting of the young couple at the Onwentsia Hunt club, at Lake Forest, Ill., something over a year ago. Both bride and bridegroom are lovers of horses, and much of the courtship was carried on while they were mounted on horseback. Mr. Lord is master of the bounds of the Onwentsia club. Mrs. Lord and her sister, formerly Miss Gladys Lawson and now Mrs.

Eben Blaine Stanwood, have been prominent in the society of Boston for several years. They made their entry first in the sporting set. Later their cleverness and charm carried them into the most exclusive of Back Bay circles.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'GUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"You see Miss Pelham often enough," said Saunders surlily. The enemy was making a pitcher of lemonade.

"My dear Saunders, you are quite right. I do see Miss Pelham often enough. In my present frame of mind I'd fall desperately in love with her if I saw her often." Saunders blinked and glared at him through his pale eyes.

"My word," he said. Then he got up abruptly and stalked out of the room. Britt laughed immediately.

"He's a lucky dog," reflected the enemy. "You see, he loves her. Britt—he loves little Miss Pelham. Do you know what that means? It means everything is worth while. Hello! Here he is back! Come in, Saunders. Here's your lemon!"

Saunders was excited. He stopped in the doorway, but looked over his shoulder into the street.

"Come along!" he exclaimed. "They are going up to the chateau—the princess and her party. My word, she's slipping!"

At the corner they stopped to await the procession of palanquins and jirikishas which had started from the pier. The smart English victoria from the chateau, drawn by Wyckholme's thoroughbreds, was coming on in advance of the foot brigade. In the rear seat of the victoria sat Lady Depping-

Ham and one who evidently was the princess. Opposite to them sat two older but no less smart looking women.

"A gala day in Anstet," observed the staid Mr. Britt. "We are to have the whole party overnight up at the chateau. Hello! My thunder, old man, she's—she's speaking to you!" He turned in astonishment to look at his companion's face.

The enemy was staring, transfixed, at the young woman in white who sat beside Lady Deppingham. He seemed paralyzed for the moment. Then his helmet came off with a rush; a dazed smile of recognition lighted his face. The very pretty young woman in the white hat was leaning forward and smiling at him. Lady Deppingham was glancing upon him with one of the other.

"I must be dreaming," murmured the enemy.

Britt took him by the arm. "Do you know her?" he asked. The enemy turned upon him with a radiant gleam in his once somber, disconsolate eyes.

"Do you think I'd be gazing at her like a fool if I didn't? Why the dickens didn't you tell me that it was the Princess Genevra of Hap-Thorberg who was coming?"

CHAPTER XI.

HOLLINGSWORTH CHASE now felt that he was on neutral ground with the Princess Genevra. His strange connection with the Skaggs will case is easily explained. After leaving Thorberg he went directly to Paris, thence, after ten days, to London, where he hoped to get on as a staff correspondent for one of the big dailies. One day at the Savage club he listened to a recital of the amazing conditions which attended the execution of Skaggs' will. He had shot wild game in South Africa with Sir John Brodney, chief counselor for the islanders, and when Sir John suddenly proposed that he go to Japan as the firm's representative he leaped at the chance.

In truth Kusula was more than glad to have the services of an American. He had heard Wyckholme talk of the manner in which civil causes were tried in the United States, and he felt that one Yankee on the scene was worth ten Englishmen at home.

The good looking Mr. Chase, writhing under the dread of exposure as an international jackass, welcomed the opportunity to get as far away from civilization as possible. He knew that the Prince Karl story would not be dormant, but he could not banish the fair face of the Princess Genevra from his thoughts during the long voyage, nor would it be stretching the point to say that his day dreams were of her as he sat and smoked in his bungalow porch.

Before Chase left London Sir John Brodney bluntly cautioned him against the dangers that lurked in Lady Deppingham's eyes.

"She won't leave you a peg to stand on, Chase. If you seek an encounter," he said, "She's pretty and she's clever, and she's made fools of better men than you, my boy. I don't say she's a bad lot, because she's too smart for that. Remember, my boy, you are going out there to offset, not to beat, Lady Deppingham."

Chase was not in love with the proud Princess Genevra. He denied that to himself a hundred times a day as he sat in his bungalow and smoked the situation over.

He had proved to himself quite beyond a doubt that he was not in love, when, like a bolt from a clear sky, she stepped out of the oblivion into which he had cast her to smile upon him without warning. It was most unfair. Her smile had been one of the most difficult obstacles to overcome in the effort to return a fair and final verdict.

Could anything be more miraculous than that she should come to the unheard of island of Japan, unless, possibly, that she should be there when she came? She was there for him to look upon and love and lose, just as he had dreamed all these months. It mattered little that she was now the wife of Prince Karl of Brabets. To him she was still the Princess Genevra of Hap-Thorberg.

In his leather pocketbook lay the ever present reminder that she could be no more than a dream to him. It was the clipping from a Paris newspaper announcing that the Princess Genevra was to wed Prince Karl during the Christmas holidays.

He had seen the Christmas holidays come and go with the certain knowledge in his heart that they had given her to Brabets as the most glorious present that man had ever received.

Now she was come to the island, and so far as he had been able to see, there was no sign of the Princess Brabets in attendance. Her uncle by marriage, an English nobleman of high degree, in gathering his friends for the long cruise evidently had left the prince out of his party, for what reason Chase could not imagine. To say that the omission was gratifying to the half American would be too simple a statement. There is no telling to what heights his thoughts might have carried him on that sultry afternoon if they had not been harshly checked by the arrival of a messenger from the chateau. His blood leaped with anticipation.

Could it be possible? But, no, she would not be writing to him. What a ridiculous thought! His hopes fell flat as the note was put into his eager hand. It was from Britt:

Still he broke the seal with considerable eagerness. As he perused the somewhat lengthy message his disappointment gave way to a no uncertain form of excitement. With this conclusion he was on his feet, his eyes gleaming with enthusiasm.

"By George!" he exclaimed. "What luck! Things are coming my way with a vengeance. I'll do it this very night, thanks to Britt. And I must not forget Brownie. Ah, what a consolation it is to know that there are Americans wherever one goes. Sellin' Sellin'!" He was standing as straight as a corporal and his eyes were glistening with the fire of battle when Sellin came up and forgot to salute, so great was his wonder at the transformation. "Get word to the men that I want every mother's son of 'em to attend a meeting in the market place tonight at 8. Very important, tell 'em. Tell Von Blitz that he's got to be there. I'm going to show him and my picturesque friend Rasula, that I am here to stay. And, Sellin, tell that messenger to wait. There's an answer."

Long before 9 o'clock the men of Japan began to gather in the market and trading place. Hollingsworth Chase, attended by Sellin, came down from his mountain retreat. He heard the shrill blast of the scorned Persians as he passed among them on the outskirts of the crowd. He observed the threatening attitude of the men who waited and watched. He saw the white, ugly face of Von Blitz quivering with triumph. He felt the breath of disaster upon his cheek. And yet he walked among them without fear, his head erect, his eyes defiant.

GALLANT COKERS WIN FIRST GAME.

lead again by two runs in the eighth.

Cokers Again Come Up. It looked all off for Sweeney and his men, but they were not through by a long shot. Billy Dunn fumbled Sileo's easy grounder in this inning and Tom was safe. Gilligan was hit and went to first, while Hagan advanced them a peg with a sacrifice. Myers singled and scored both, and the score was tie again. After both sides battled until the tenth without scoring, Smink called the game. The score:

WOW!

Going some.

Sorry you left?

Staved off defeat.

Clarksburg is some team.

Bill Smink had his eye with him.

There was only one serious kick; one at third.

Jack Cotter pitched some ball in the first game.

Bill Glassburner wasn't in trim. He'll deliver yet.

Sileo scored three of the Cokers' ten runs. He had two hits.

For timely hitting on both sides the second game was never beaten.

Gilligan worked the hidden ball trick on Cy Dawson in the first game.

Both teams hit the opposing pitchers in the first.

Eighteen free trips to first base is pretty nearly a league record this season. Walls passed 11.

Speaking of Walls, it was his last day with the Moguls. He has been turned over to Parkersburg.

No game today so the fans can take in the big show at Pittsburgh. Umpire Bill Smink made a neat announcement.

After all the mean things said about Bill Smink, there are worse umpires and worse fellows. Like all humanly, Bill has his off days.

It is reported that Smink is after the job left vacant in the National league by Cusack's dismissal. Bill could make good in the big show.

Chilling the bases three times took the ginger out of Sileo. He was willing to retire and didn't begrudge Cannon's opportunity to win the game.

To his credit be it said that Chip Francis played a swell game yesterday. If Chip kept up that gait there would be no further complaints.

Twenty-one innings of aizzling baseball should be enough to satiate the most rapid fan. Those who left early missed the best of the entire show.

Grafton hung it on to Uniontown yesterday. Bully for Grafton. Those cheery Chumps are not so many after all. We'll pass 'em yet.

Nine Cokers batted in the sixth inning of the second game. The five hits netted nine bases, too. That nine was a charm.

Even had Frailley touched him, McAleese would have been safe when he stole home as, in stepping up to the plate, Ben interfered with the batter.

Frailley was the only Coker who failed to get a hit in either game. Ben wasn't feeling up to snuff. His day layoff didn't work to his advantage.

At that, even if Frailley wasn't just up to the hounds, there was nothing wrong with his catching. That lad will bear watching. He is a corner.

In spite of his rather negative work in the field early in the second game, Tiffany managed to rap out two singles. He scored on one occasion.

Fans who like to see plenty of hitting, had their fill in the second game. In the first contest both pitchers declined to allow the bingles often.

Calhoun was there with the timely single when he scored Myers in the first game. Aside from his rather costly mist, Calhoun played a good game and upreared several hits that looked good for safety. He misjudged one hit, which went for two bases and gave Clarksburg its first pair of runs.

Duch Myers didn't have much to do in the field but he did that little well. He shows signs of recovering his batting eye, too, and should strike his "three a game" average before long.

Chip Francis essayed some deep stuff when he tried to catch a man at first on a clean single. The throw went wide and let the runner advance a base. Aside from this, Chip played better ball than he has for some weeks past. His triple was a hummer.

Our old friend, Barney Gilligan, in addition to furnishing some comedy as a side line, played a game of class. His hitting and base running helped the Cokers wonderfully. As a hard worker and wise old owl, Barney is there with the bells on.

That man Sileo is in danger of landing in the sluggers' class. A double and a single, added to the three runs he scored, makes his record look just about A. No. 1. And Tom did some nice pitching, too.

Kid Hagan couldn't keep 'em out of the air until it came to a pinch. Then, with two men down, he battered out a single which won the first game. His triple in the second contest scored two runs and his single another. The Kid was there in the field, too.

Elmer Cannon allowed but one safe hit in the two innings he pitched. With the bases full Dunn hit a vicious one but Gilligan spoiled it and touched Cy Dawson out, retiring the side.

MAY BE NO SPLIT SEASON IN P. & W. VA. LEAGUE

All The Teams Are Still in the Running But Matter Will Be Settled Soon.

Parkersburg was formally admitted to the Pennsylvania & West Virginia League at a meeting of the West Virginia teams in Fairmont yesterday. The Pennsylvania teams were not represented; in fact they were not notified that a meeting was to be held, so no real business was done. The next meeting will be held early next week in Uniontown.

President J. D. Groominger will likely give up his idea of playing for Parkersburg as that team has signed Reader of Manington to cover second.

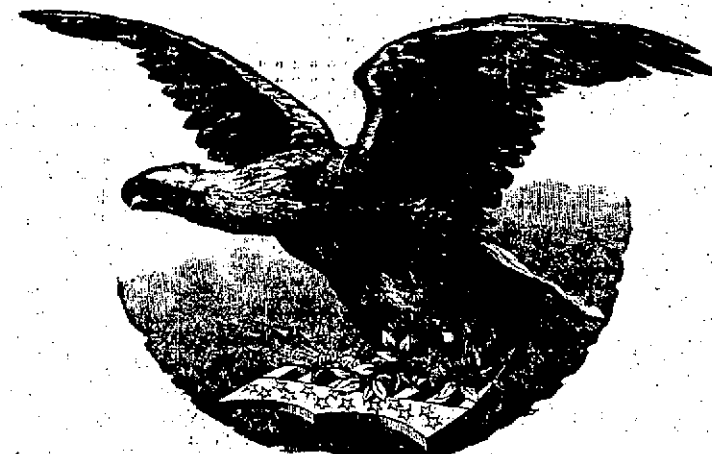

It is hardly likely that the season will be split, as there is decided opposition to such a move. None of the teams is out of the running and a satisfactory arrangement will likely be made for the benefit of the new franchise holders.

Baseball history in Connelville was made yesterday. Never before, and possibly never again, was such playing witnessed by the Coker fans as during the 21 pulsating innings between Connelville and Clarkburg, with the Cokers winning the first in 11 sessions and coming up from behind in a driving finish and taking the second contest in 10 after it had apparently been hopelessly lost.

Baseball? Well, it looked like it. And the fans enjoyed the treat. They cheered the Coker crew on to a brilliant victory and the voices of the hummers were drowned while the fans exhorted the team not to lose the second contest. A batting rally such as was never seen before, one continued for two innings, wiped out the Mogul lead of six runs and put the Cokers one to the good. Then the visitors showed the stuff they are made of and tied the score. Not satisfied with this, they got two more runs on the Cokers and all seemed lost. This was in the eighth inning, but the bingles were forthcoming and the Cokers again tied the score. At the end of the tenth inning, Umpire Shulok wisely decided to call the game as both sides were pretty well tired out.

Was a Pitchers' Battle.

The first game was a pitchers' battle between Jack Cotter and Wells, with each running a race to see which could give the most passes and lowest bingles. Cotter came out a winner as he only issued seven transportation slips to 11 for Wells. The hits were even.

Cotter passed a man in the first only to have him score on a bingle and duplicated the feat in the second. But right there Mr. Cotter stopped. After that he was the coldest proposition the Drummers have stacked up against.

On the other hand, Wells kept on giving out the slips which entitled the batter to a free ride to the initial cushion, and in the regulation nine innings had let nine take the voyage, an average of one per inning.

The Cokers could do nothing but pop up his curves until the fifth inning, when they broke the ice. It was Barney Gilligan who started things. He drew one of those nifty passes and went up when Hagan tried the hit-and-run and was stopped. But Barney, from his point of vantage at second, raced home like a Derby winner when Myers wiped the sphere for two sacks. Myers balled on Calhoun's single.

This ended all scoring until the eleventh, although things looked bad in the ninth. In that session Gibbs opened up with a two bagger and took third on a squeeze. Then Wells essayed to work the squeeze play but bunted into the Francis' hands. Gibbs had too far a lead to get back and was doubled.

Gilligan Scores Again.

In the eleventh Gilligan again worked Wells for a pass—it was his third. He stole second and then Kid Hagan slammed the ball into center field far enough away for Gilligan to tully. There was a warwhoop of joy when Barney crossed the pan with the winning run. The score follows:

The Second Game.
 Manager Sweeney advised Bill Glassburner to try his arm in the second game but Bill was reluctant. He hadn't played for a week and knew he wasn't in the best of trim. Things broke bad at the start for Cy Dawson, a fast man, hit a grounder down to Tiffany, who fumbled. Then, although Glassburner was on the bug waiting for the throw, Gordon tried to beat Cy to it and lost out. Dunn sacrificed and J. Dawson stopped one of Bill's swift ones with his arm. Bill had a hard time finding the plate but put one over long enough for McInty to smash it for a pair of bases, scoring both of the Dawson boys. The McAleese put one down towards first which went for a hit because Tiffany froze to his sack and made no attempt to field the ball. McInty scored. Right here is where Glassburner quit. He voluntarily relinquished his place in the box, feeling he was doing the team an injustice in remaining, although poor support was snitch to blame.

Enter Mr. Silcox.

Tom Silcox took up the white man's burden and Gribben hit the first ball pitched for a single, McAleese scoring. The next two men flew out to left and the side was retired.
 A four run lead was had enough but in the third inning Clarkburg got another. A base on balls, steal, and a subsequent single did the damage in this session. The Cokers were not finding Limbic to any noticeable extent, either.
 They did score, however, in the fourth and on a funny play. Like Francis lifted what looked to be a clean single over third base. Cy Dawson fumbled and let the ball get through him, so he kept on running. To add to Cy's troubles, on his throw in the ball hit a telephone wire and bounced back, like continuing around the sacks until he had completed the circuit.
 As the Cokers were still four runs behind, it seemed like a joke to the Moguls. And it looked more like a joke when they scored a pair of runs in the fifth inning. McInty opened this session with a home run which sent Calhoun chasing almost to the center field fence. McAleese popped out to the Francis and Gribben had the same intention until Calhoun snuffed the fly and, to show his chagrin, threw the ball over Tiffany's head. Two more singles scored Gribben.

The Cokers Find Themselves.

Was Clarkburg on easy street with that six run lead? Just you bet she was. But a yawn awakening was coming for Mr. Limbic. The Cokers started doing things in the last half of the fifth inning. The game was only intended to go seven, so they had to hurry. After Chip Francis and down with wings like a dove into Mr. Gribben's hands, Silcox hit for two bases. Gilligan singled and then Kid Hagan, who broke up the first game, unassed the sphere past John Dawson for three sacks. Myers flew to Gibbs but John Dawson dropped the Francis' long fly and the Kid scored. That left only three runs to be made up.

Clarkburg could do nothing to Silcox in the sixth so the Cokers again took up the cudgel. Friley started things by going out but Tiffany singled. With blood in his eye and a determination to wipe out old scores and hit or bust, Chip Francis sized Limbic's assortment. He waited until Bill Smink called "three and two" and then battered the ball for three-fourths of the circuit, scoring on a single by Silcox. Gilligan then felt frisky, and reeled off one for three pillows, and scored on Hagan's single. This ended the scoring and the Cokers were a run in the good.

No Clarkburg's credit, the Moguls were game. Two successive singles and an infield out got men on second and third, the double steal was attempted and McAleese reached home in safety. Gribben also came in, but was flagged back to third. The score was tied and the Cokers could get no lead. A couple of singles and a base on balls gave Clarkburg the
